The Leontine Literary Union occupied Washington Park yesterday afternoon and evening, and a great many pleasant adjectives could be used to describe the occasion. Prof. McAuliffe, the musical director, had pienty to do and did it with twenty-eight selections and several encores. The grand march was led by Dr. Charles J. Kane and his wife, and everybody pronounced them the best-looking couple on the floor. During the evening several friendly organizations called and paid their respects to President McGrale, chief among them being the Wyandotte Boat Club marching to the music of a well-played fife

The other day four-year-old Paul's mother reported that he had been a bad boy and that I had better whip him. Paul overheard the remark and said: Yes, papa, I think if you'd whip me more I'd be a better boy." Few children think that way. P. F. W., 73 Third avenue, Brooklyn.

A Valuable Suggestion.

A good joke is told of a young man who atsuded a social circle a few evenings since. The conversation turned on California and getting rich. Tom --- remarked that " if he be was in California he would, instead of working in the mines, waylay some rich men who had a bag full of gold, knock out his brains, gather up the gold and skedaddle." A little girl quietly replied "that he'd better gather up the brains, as he evidently stood in more need of that article than gold."

His Resemblance to a Shepherd

A religious society decided to build a new church this season and the pastor, among others, was chosen to solicit funds. He did his work very zealously, taking not only the widow's but the child's mites. He had a class of children in the Sunday-school, and one Sunday, while instructing them, he compared himself to the Good Shepherd and then inquired what the latter did with his flock. One bright-eyed little fellow promptly replied, "He shears 'em!" There was some smiling at that answer smiling at that answer.

"Some more cheese, please," said a small boy of eight to his papa at dinner. "No. my child," said the prudent parent; "you have already had enough. When I was a child I had to cat my bread and smell my cheese." "Very well," retorted the small boy; "give us a piece to smell."

His View of It. "Harry, you ought not to throw away nice bread like that : you may want it some day." "Well, mother, should I stand any better chance of getting it then if I ate it now?"

A Good Riddance.

A lady, with a sigh, exclaimed': "Well, I've lost my lawsuit!" "Oh, mamma, how glad I am." said her child. "that you have lost it, for it tormented you awfully."

AN ELECTRIC MOTOR RUNS AWAY.

It Collides with a Telegraph Pole and Seven Persons Are Injured.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 29.-A motor and car on the South Side Electric Railway ran away yesterday and was completely wrecked. Seven person were in the car at the time, and all were more or ess seriously injured. One of them, Mrs. Rachel Herrop, it is thought is fatally burt. The motor and car were coming down the steep grade at Mount Oliver, when the speed suddenly increases and the engineer lost control of the brake. The train sped to the bottom of the hill, when jumped the track and plunged into a telegraph pole. The motor was twisted and broken and the cab reduced to kindling-wood. The force of the sudden stoppage enapped the coupling holding the car and hurled the car into a ditch at the side of the road.

Engineer McGibbney jumped from the cab and was badly hurt. Conductor Smythe also jumped, but escaped with slight injury.

Was He Murdered for Being a Democrat ? 2

[SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.]

His wife says her husband heard a noise and went out to see if the stock had not broken into the garden. Soon she saw a form pass the door and then another. Then words were neard and she saw her husband forced to mount an animal from a stump nearby and hurried off. The alarm was given at daylight and the horse-tracks were traced to the river. Spencer has been a practical farmer for years. He declared on the street a few days ago that he would support the Democracy, and this is said to be the reason for the supposed murder.

The snnounced parting of Jimmy Mc-Laughliu and the Dwyer Brothers, after seven years in which the jockey has been the firm's chief rider, is exciting much comment in sporting circles. Jimmy's failure of nerve and dash, which have probably led to the severance of his connection with the brothers, is attributed to various causes. His wasting down to get a idiculously low weight is put down as a leading cause, and then there are his family troubles and infatuation for a woman who caused them. McLaughlin will continue to ride. His successor with the Dwyer Brothers is not yet named.

A Canadian Official Says Americans Have Other Causes for Complaint.

'The unwarrantable seizure of the American ship Bridge-water and her subsequent release and the rerusal of the Dominion Government to compensate the owner for the loss of some $20,000 is fresh on the records of the department at Washington. I am in a position to know that the complaints which have been made by the United States authorities of the harsh treatment United states citizens have endured at the hands of the customs officials of the Dominion have not been entered without insteaded. I could commercial scores of cases in which American goods have been seized and detained will hout the slightest reason, and when the agrieved citizens of the United States sought redress through the courts they were invariacly denied permission to enter sait, which permission must be obtained before any action can be taken against the Government. "I I may mention the case of an American citizen named Oxarart, which is now being acted upon at Washington, whose property to the value of some $40,000 was soized at Calgary by the Sub-Collector. The customs department here subsequently declared the secure unwarrantable, and ordered the restoration of the property. In the mean dime the property, which remained in the possession of the Sub-Collector, was stolen when the Government repudiated him as an officer, although he was on the Government pay-roil as Sub-Collector and Postmaster at the time the seizure was made, and denied any responsibility for the loss sustained. MURDERED OLD "POP" RILAND.

One of the Pioneers of Colorado Killed on His Lonely Ranch. SEPECIAL TO THE WORLD, I

DENVER, Col., Aug. 29.—Old "Pop" Riland, one of the pioneers of Colorado and well known for many years on the frontier, has been brutally murdered on his ranch, near Dotaero, Garfield County, by C. A. Babcock, who claims that he was forced to shoot his aged victim in self-defense. His narration, however, was confused and distorted. James M. Kiland, a son of the murlered mail, is a well-known Colorado newspaper man, and another son resides at Dubnque, ia., where the family came from. What occasioned the shooting will never be known. Babcock and Hiland were alone when it occurred. Babcock gave himself up to the Deputy Sheriff at Glenwood Springs. Riland was one of the characters of Western Colorado. His ranch on the Sweet Water was the first located in this section. For him years it has been a landmark and stopping piace for hunters and tourists. In the early days of California Gulch Rilland was among the prospectors. Twenty-five years ago he was one of the pioneers of Summit County. Hardly a mining camp in that part of the State had enjoyed even a temporary ocom but that he hastened to the scene, cager to be among the first to win the prize, and more than once he struck it, but always held on and would not sell when his claims could be disposed of at handsome figures. for many years on the frontier, has been brusail;

Gilmore is full of pleasant anticipation of the result of to-morrow night, when Denman Thompson begins his long engagement at the Academy of Music in "The Old Homestead." Everything is now ready, and the Academy will doubtless astonish its friends by the splendor of its appearance. Manager Comstock says that Mr. Thompson has secured a number of little "bits" from the real old homestead up at Swanzey, N. H., as properties. The old hay wagon and the oxen came from Uncle Joshua's farm. The grindstone, the plough, the rail fence, are all "real."

From Lederer and Slocum, at Detroit, comes the statement that "The Kitty" has met with success.

Manager Pat Harris, of the Academy of Music. Baltimore, flooded New York with telegrams yesterday, announcing the opening of his removated theatre with "Held by the Enemy." The theatre was built some ten years ago by a number of wealthy Baltimorians. It is as large as the Academy of Music here, but was never a success. Last year it fell into the hands of Pat Harris, who has spert $50.000 upon it and is now running it as a first-class house. Mr. Harris is said to be the originator of dime museums.

ened child, but could not remember the words. Then, with the pure cold snow for a pillow, fair Nellie Ross sank gently into the sicep of death.

Will Lyster's rest was strangely troubled that night: he fancied several times that he heard Nellie's voice calling for aid; and his mother's distress increased his uneasiness. At break of day he was ready to go over to Mrs. Ross's; his pride was quite vanquished by intense anxiety.

Piqued by his seeming indifference, she was very deaf to her aunt's entreaties; and, regardless of the friendly warning, she rushed out into the storm. It was drifting, and the cold snow flying in her face almost blinded her. She could not see her way, there was no path, and at every step she sank almost to her waist; and still, with the energy of anger, she went on.

"He drove me out," she said to herself:
"I shall never turn back. If he finds me

Then, raising her in his arms, he turned towards home. He carried his unconscious burden on into the house, walking like one in a dream, without a word, and laid her upon the heal.

the bed.

The shock was terrible to the bereaved mother. Nellie's girlish friends lamented loudly their companion cut off in the bloom of youth: the poor, whom she had helped and comforted, mourned deeply; but Will Lyster never spoke. But once did he show any trace of canotion; then, the night before she was consigned to her last resting place, when the household had all retired, his mother alone remained to watch beside the body. He came to look upon the child-like face, so calm in the solemn majesty of death.

"Oh, Nellie, Nellie," he cried; "I loved you so dearly, and I killed you!"

Then, resting his head upon his mother's
